DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-28 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

With respect to the independent claims 1 and 10, prior art fails to disclose or make obvious, in combination with other recited features of the claim limitations, a liquid switch, comprising: a channel for flowing a liquid therethrough; and a damming portion provided in said channel for damming said liquid; wherein said damming portion includes a member holding said liquid.

With respect to the independent claims 15 and 18, prior art fails to disclose or make obvious, in combination with other recited features of the claim limitations, a liquid switch, comprising: a channel for flowing a liquid therethrough; and a damming portion provided in said channel for damming said liquid; wherein said damming portion includes a surface exhibiting a lyophobicity for said liquid.

The key element of the Applicant's invention, which is not disclosed in prior art, is the disclosure of liquid switch with a channel for flowing a liquid through the channel with a damming portion in the channel for damming the liquid.

The dependent claims 2-9 and 20-28 are allowable by virtue of their dependence upon the independent claim 1. The dependent claims 11-14, 16-17, and 19, are allowable by virtue of their dependence upon the independent claims 10, 15, and 18, respectively.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. K. Iida (2006/0292039 A1) discloses a measuring system using a measuring chip having a channel groove provided in the substrate surface where the liquid sample flows in the channel groove to develop a predetermined reaction depending on concentration of a specific component.
